LAMPS AND LIGHTING

Attractive lamps can be made from a great variety of discarded items. For an informal foom such things as canisters, coffee grinders, and cream cans, when fitted with shades in the right scale, texture, and color, will make lamps that will distinct character to your rooms. For a child's room, consider a teddy bear or a gumball bank. For a teenage girl's room , you might fill a large apothecacary jar with jelly beans. A handsomely turned or carved wooden leg or newel post retrieved from a junk pile has grat possibilites. Vases of most any variety, if scale and color are right, will make a versatile lamp. Always be on the alert for the possible "makings" of an unusual lamp.

Enhance plain, inexpensive lampshades by giving them a custom-made look. Sew or glue on a wide decorative fabric border, braid, or fringe an inch or two from the top and bottom edge. Or cover the shade completely by gluing on wallpaper or fabric. To change its color, spray paint is recommended. Cloth lampshades can be dyed. For a child's room, cover a lampshade with colorful cut-outs from children's books, then shellac. 12 oz. spray shellac - $2.69

Make sharp spotlights out of empty soup cans. Open one end of the can completely; make a hole in the opposite end--small enough to fit a wire through. With socket and reflector bulb in can, drop the cord as far from the ceiling as you wish, or let each light hug the ceiling. Paint the outside of the can black.
Three small flowerpots fastened together with epoxy and given a coat of paint (or left natural) will make a sturdy lamp base.

HEADBOARDS

Make a headboard of curtain poles. Buy varied sizes of identical brass curtain poles and attach them vertically to the wall by their brackets. Arrange them in sequence (like organ pipes), at random heights, or line them up evenly at the top. With ornate finials, curtain poles make an attractive, as well as sturdy headboard.
Make an attractive headboard out of a carved panel of wood or an old wooden door. Get a door as close to your bed size as possible or have it cut down at your lumber yard. Fasten it directly to the wall behind your bed and you have a stunning headboard. An old iron gate used the same way makes an equally stunning headboard.

Divide a bedroom shared by two children with perforated hardboard. Place a piece of the hardboard over a row of storage chests, extending it to the ceiling. Paint it and place hooks in it on both sides so the children can hang up their jackets or other personal belongings.
